BITTER STORMS WHIP ENGLAND COLDEST MAY FOR OVER 60 YEARS

HEAVY FROSTS DAMAGE FARM CROPS

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, May 18, 8 a.m.)

London, May 17.
In sharp, and chilling, contrast with the temperature of the days of the King's Jubilee, Britain is to-day experiencing the coldest mid-May weather of 64 years.
Snow is falling; and in many parts of the country it has been found necessary to abandon racing programmes. The Haydock Park course is covered with four inches of snow.
The Welsh Women's Golf Championship at Tenby and the Dunlop Tournament at Southport both have been stopped owing to snow. At Southport a caddy collapsed owing to the intense cold.
The final stages of both these contests will be replayed to-morrow.
There is a heavy snowfall at Liverpool, Leeds and Harrogate, while the road from Cumberland to Durham, in North Wales, is impassable because of the drifts.
Many parts of Scotland and North Ireland are similarly snow-bound. It is feared that the late cold will do large damage to crops in all northern districts, and even in the south.
London's noon temperature to-day was 48, compared with 44 yesterday, but another bitter night is expected throughout the country.
Last night's frost damaged fruit trees extensively. There were 19 degrees of frost at Framborough and 14 at Kew.—Reuter Special.

HEAVY SENTENCE FOR NUN ADMITS CHARGE OF SMUGGLING MANY CHARGED IN GERMANY

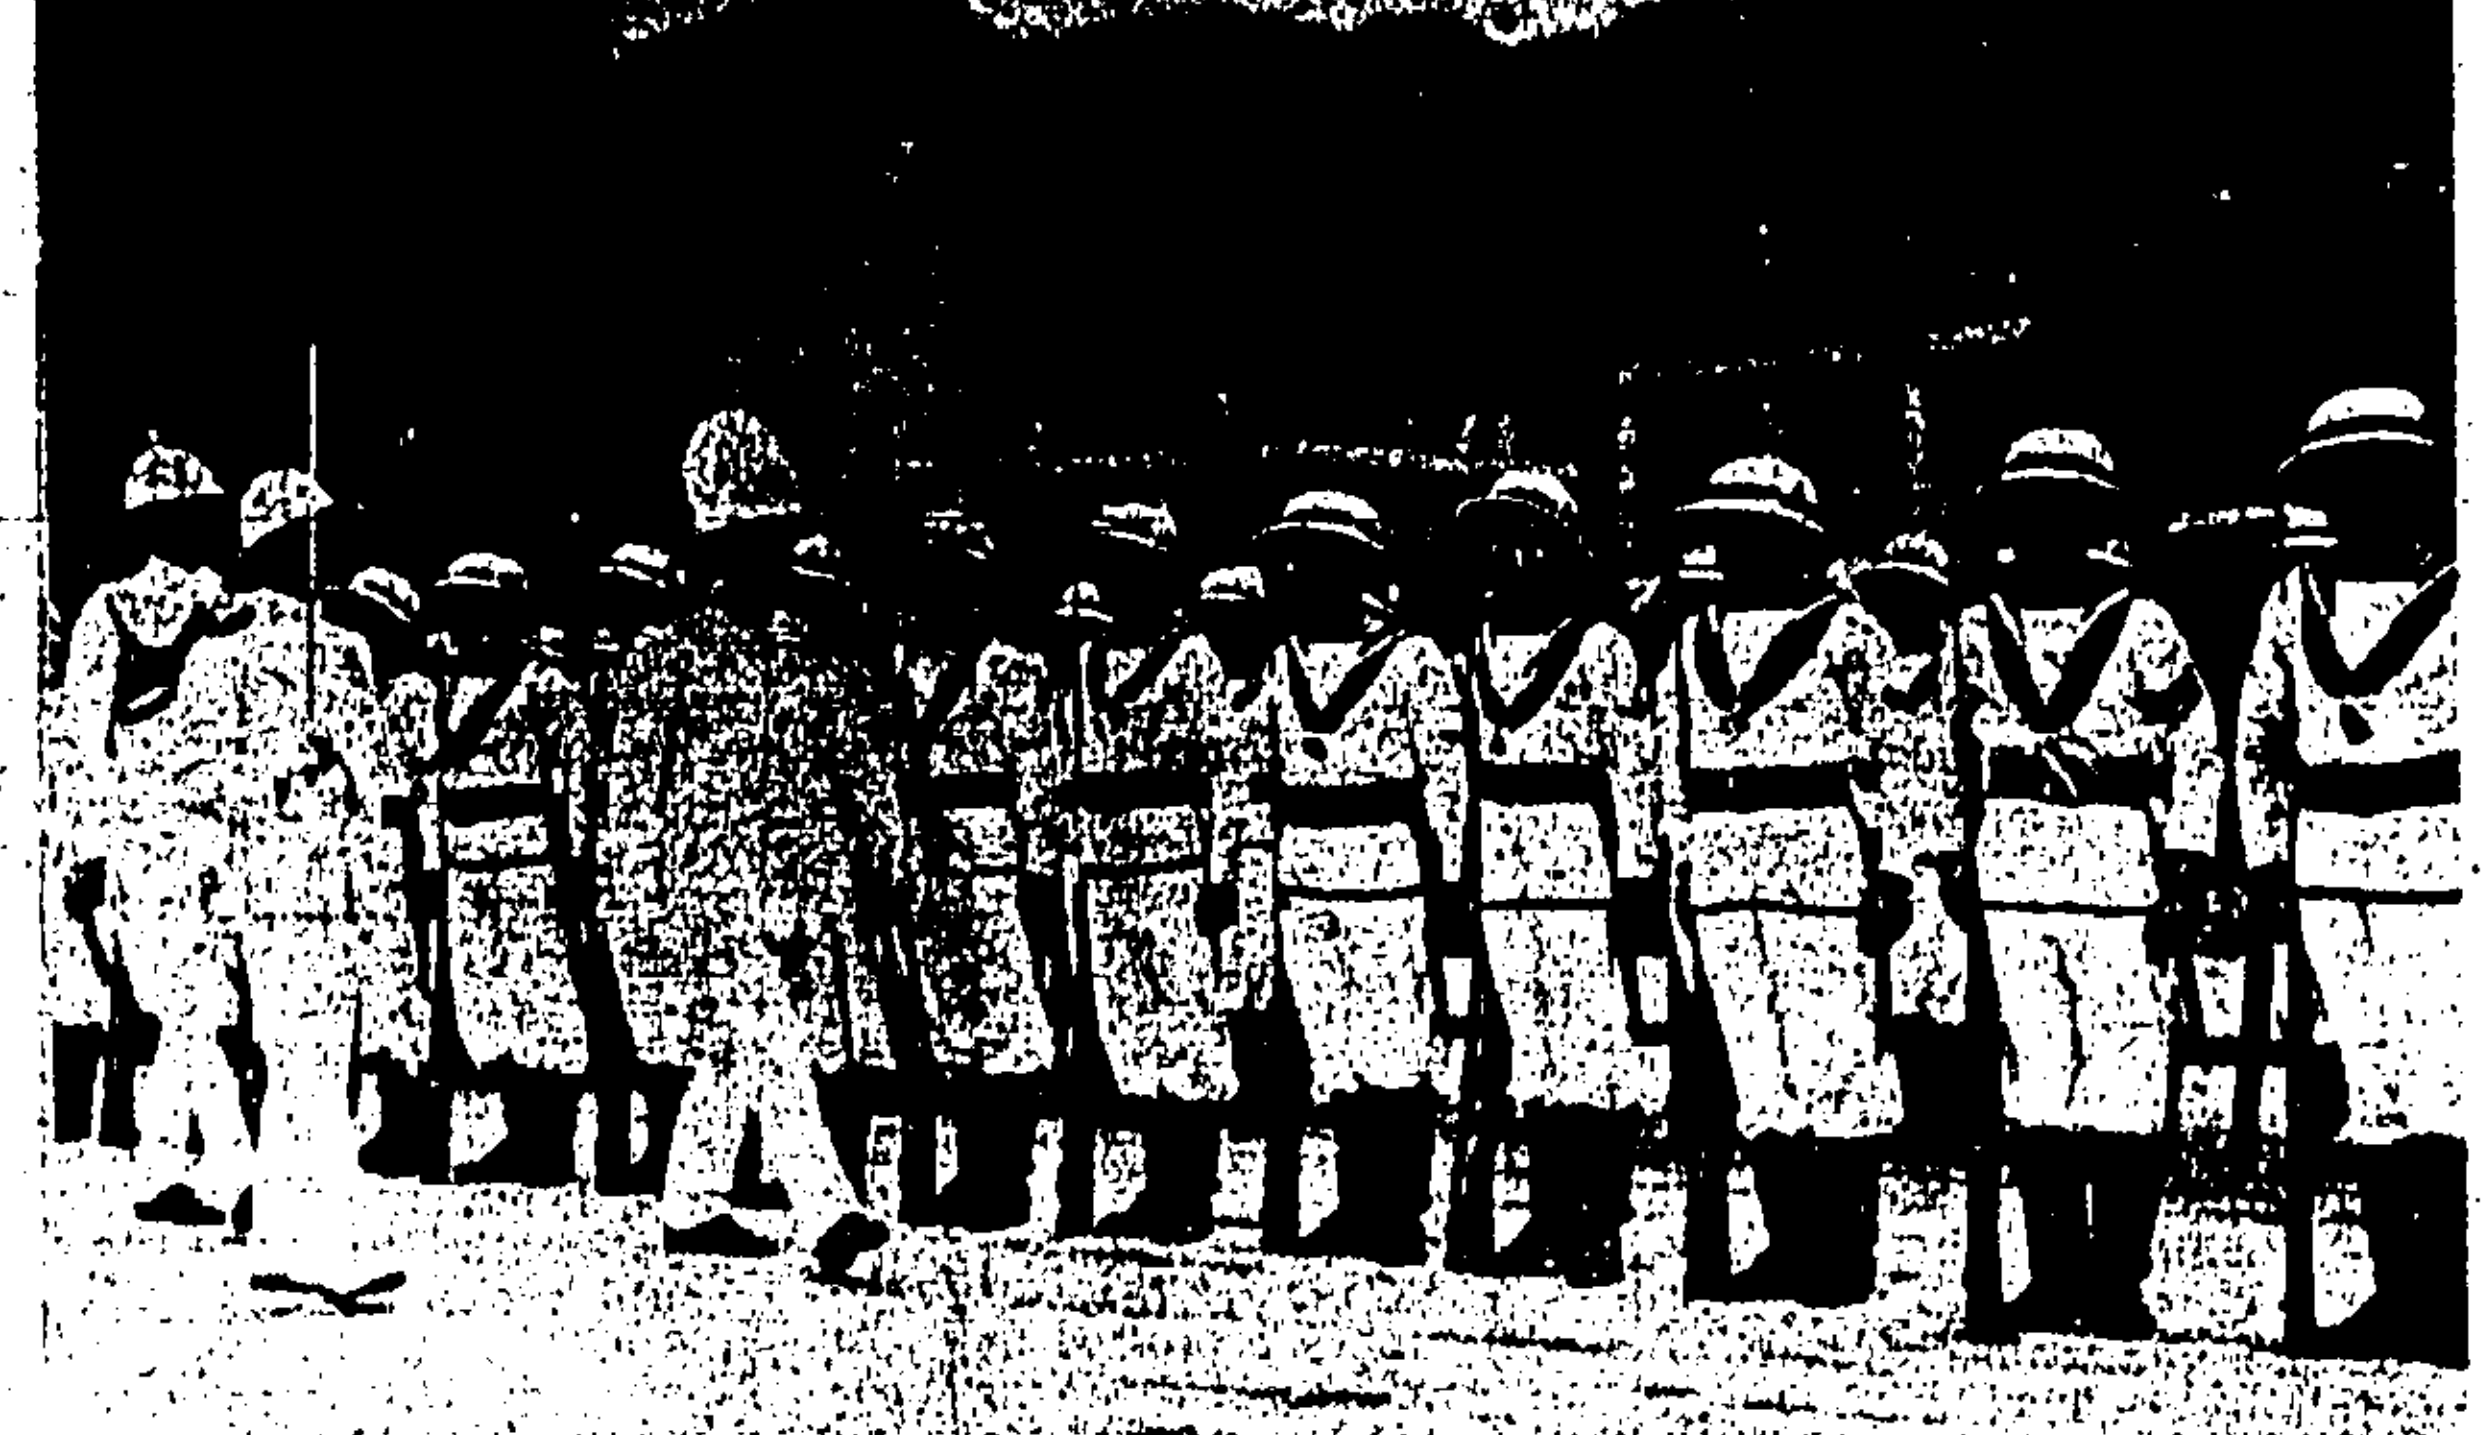

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1911. Received, May 18, 8 a.m.)
Berlin, May 17.
Sentenced to five years' penal servitude and fined £12,000, or in default an additional fourteen months' imprisonment, the Catholic Nun, Sister Wernera, was led from the Berlin Court to-day, while throughout Germany leaders and members of the Church heard the news of the sentence with alarm.
Sister Wernera was charged with smuggling German currency out of the country. She is Provincial Secretary of the Catholic Order of St. Vincent, whose Mother Convent is in France.
The Court also ordered the confiscation of some £20,000 for which Catholic Societies, in whose interest the smuggling of currency was carried out, will have to be liable.
Sister Wernera admitted to the charge. She said the money was needed for the expansion of a hospital in Cologne. She herself carried the money over the frontier, hidden in her clothing, and passed it on to a Belgian Sister of her order.
The money was used to buy some of the order's own bonds in Holland, Sister Wernera divulged. This case is only one of about fifty which will be heard against monks and nuns during the next few weeks. The prosecution has emphasised that the proceedings are in no way political or anti-Catholic, but purely criminal.—Reuter Special.

PLOTTERS OF MEMEL MUST DIE ONLY PRESIDENT CAN INTERVENE

ANOTHER APPEAL?
Kunas, May 17.
The appeals of four Nazis of Memel, charged with plotting to overthrow the power of the authorities there and to place the city and its environs under Nazi control, and who were sentenced to death, have been dismissed by the Supreme Court.
Simultaneously, the appeals of about eighty others, sentenced to varying terms of imprisonment, were also dismissed.
The Supreme Court yesterday refused to allow the exercising of the right of petition to the President of Lithuania for clemency.
It is understood, however, that the Minister for War has the right to appeal on their behalf, while the President can commute the death sentences on his own initiative.—Reuter.
When the Memel Nazis were sentenced there was an outcry in Germany and gravely disturbing demonstrations against the little East European State which, however, defied the German Reich to interfere in its affairs. Patriots of both countries talked loudly of the necessity for armed intervention; the Germans to save the Memel Nazis and the Lithuanians to prevent any recurrence of Nazi plotting within their borders.

RICHBERG TO RESIGN? DECLARES HE NEEDS REAL REST

Washington, May 17.
Mr. Donald Richberg, head of the N.R.A. Administration, successor to General Hugh Johnson, has declared that he wishes to resign. He sets August 1 as the date for his relief.
"I feel I need a real rest," he says.—Reuter.

Prison For Gang Chief LIFE TERM FOR KIDNAPPING

BLOODY DUEL RECALLED

St. Paul, May 17.
Minnesota's notorious "Doc" Barker, leader of one of the most dangerous criminal gangs in the country, has been sentenced to life imprisonment in connection with the kidnapping of the wealthy St. Paul banker, Mr. Edward Bremer. Bremer was carried off last January and held to ransom.
Other members of the gang were also convicted.
All were captured after a gun battle with police at Oaklawah, Florida, in January.
In that bloody duel "Ma" Barker and her son Fred were shot to death. "Ma" Barker, as great a villain as any of her menfolk, fought blithely to the end, firing a "tommy-gun" at the police who were advancing under the scant cover afforded by the trees in the garden of the house in which the gang had taken refuge.—Reuter.

Elevation Of Embassies NATIONS FORCED TO ACT

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1911. Received, May 18, 10 a.m.)
Washington, May 17.
Observers here credit Japan with the direct responsibility for elevation of all the Peking Legations to the rank of Embassy.
Japan's move was caused by a desire to increase her prestige in and friendliness with China. British and Americans, determined not to permit Japan to gain an advantage over them in this way, despite the fact that in the past they had held it inconsistent to establish Embassies in a country where extraterritoriality was maintained, as well as armed Legation guards, nevertheless were forced to follow suit.

STOP PRESS

Shanghai, May 18.
The China National Aviation Company's Boeing Amphibian mail and passenger plane crashed taking off from Lunghua aerodrome to-day. It was starting on its regular flight to Hankow. There were no fatalities, but several injuries, of a painful, and possibly serious nature, were received by pilot and passengers.
Among the injured were two members of the American Economic Mission to China, Mr. L. W. Rogers, Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, Washington, and Professor C. F. Remer, University of Michigan. The former suffered a sprained ankle and the latter slight cuts in the leg.—United Press.

Lawrence Still Unconscious CONDITION REMAINS UNCHANGED

London, May 17.
Colonel T. E. Lawrence, the man who won the Arabs to the British cause during the Great War, and who deliberately wrecked his motorcycle 72 hours ago in an attempt to avoid a collision with a boy bicyclist, has been unconscious ever since his accident.
At 10 o'clock to-night he was still in a very critical condition. Artificial feeding has been resorted to in an endeavour to give him strength.
He has held his own throughout the day and his condition is unchanged.
Rumours that Colonel Lawrence's injuries were due to an attempt upon his life are declared to be baseless.—Reuter.

NEW YORK SILVER PRICE RISES LOCAL & SHANGHAI DOLLARS STEADY

WORLD WATCHING FOR PATMAN BILL VETO

In spite of the fact that London silver prices declined slightly yesterday, the prices in both New York and Montreal advanced. In New York silver was 77 cents, up a half from the previous day's rate, and within one cent of the Treasury limit price. London's silver price dropped only 3/8d.
The Hongkong dollar remains unchanged to-day, as does the Shanghai exchange market. Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz are informed through Reuter that India sold yesterday; China bought and speculators worked both ways. Last night's messages said the market was uncertain.
Meanwhile there is activity in monetary matters in other directions than silver. President Roosevelt will veto the Patman Bonus Bill and send the message to Congress on Monday, it is expected. France denies she is about to inflate and Ecuador has banned all silver exports.
The Hongkong dollar opened unchanged this morning, the official rate being 2s. 5 1/2d. The market opened rather easy at 2s. 5 1/4d. sellers and 2s. 5 1/2d. buyers. Later, a steadier tone was apparent, the selling rate being 2s. 5 1/8d. and buying 2s. 5d.

POLISH VETERANS' FAREWELL LAST SALUTE FOR PILSUDSKI

BURIAL AT CRACOW

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1911. Received, May 18, 8 a.m.)
Warsaw, May 17.
The casket bearing the body of Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, Poland's warrior hero and late dictator, was borne out of Warsaw to-day aboard a special train and to the place of interment, at Cracow.
There were impressive scenes on Warsaw's great Parade Ground before the casket left. A company from each regiment in the Polish Army stood in close ranks facing the flag-draped bier. These men, many of them veterans who had followed their well-loved leader into battle against Russian Cossacks, Russians, Germans, Austrians and Hungarians, were the flower of the Polish Army. They wept openly, some of them.
As the infantry companies' rifles rapped out a last salute, squadrons of aeroplanes dropped from the high sky dipped above the casket.
Metal-decked veterans lifted the coffin upon a gun-carriage after the religious ceremony and the slow cortege marched in solemn silence to the railway.
In that same silence the train moved off to Cracow.—Reuter Special.

EXPORTS BANNED PATMAN BILL VETO

Guayquil, Ecuador, May 17.
A decree has been published here prohibiting the export of all silver.—United Press.

WASHINGTON, MAY 17.

The Patman Bonus Bill was despatched to the White House this morning. President Roosevelt this afternoon will write his veto message, which will probably be sent to Congress on Monday.
President Roosevelt plans to present the Bonus veto by a personal appearance at a joint session of Congress next week. The President, at a Press Conference to-day, said: "I hope with all my heart that the veto will be sustained."
The President indicated some feeling about the reports that the Administration would like to see the veto overridden. The date of the veto has not yet been determined.
The ultimate outcome of the Patman Bill is attracting world-wide attention as the final passage of the Bill, as considered by many authorities, will introduce the element of inflation into the already complicated monetary situation in the United States. The Bill provides for the issuance of additional currency for payment of Soldiers' Bonus.—Reuter.

New Quick-Whitening Action Makes Dull Teeth Clear and Sparkling

Modern science has discovered that millions of germs are collecting on the teeth, forming ugly dingy stains that no ordinary toothpaste can remove. That is why we say... start using Kolynos. Your teeth will look brighter after the very first brushing. Soon they will look clearer, cleaner and whiter than you believed possible.

The quick-beautifying action of Kolynos is due to two things. First, Kolynos contains the finest cleansing and polishing agents known to science. Second, it has the antiseptic power to kill millions of germs that cause ugly teeth and decay.

Now try this new way that so quickly gives dull, discolored teeth brilliance and whiteness.

Make Most of Your Mind

TRAINING MEMORY TO WORK MENTAL EXERCISE

By Prof. A. M. Low

Every man and woman has a mind and a body, of which the dual capacity is determined by heredity, environment and certain other circumstances. It seems extraordinary that while thousands take considerable pains to keep their bodies "fit" and increase their physical powers, few bother about their minds.

Yet the brain needs exercise in exactly the same way as the body, and the more it is trained the more efficient must it become. It is not merely a matter of "being intellectual," but of being intellectual, that bring fortunes to a few are seldom so much a matter of luck as of hard work carried out in the right way by a "fit" mind.

How can you make the most of your intellect? The first essential is to realise that nothing can come out of your brain that has not gone in. In other words, your mental fitness must depend very largely on your powers of observation and receptivity. The recluse, who shuts out the world, may be a brilliant philosopher, but he is usually out of touch with his fellow beings, and in my opinion is not making the most of his life.

Almost everyone thinks he observes. But the majority of us are half-blind. Hardly a day passes, for instance, but you handle money. Can you say how the word "company" is spelt on a Bank of England note? Not one person in ten is correct. Write down the names of a dozen friends, and then try to add the colour of their hair and their eyes. It is amazing how many people fail at this apparently simple test. The truth is, of course, that we look but do not see.

OBSERVATION

The first step in training of the mind is to cultivate the power of observation. Scientists have to rely very largely on their powers of observation. If you systematically observe for a week, you will be amazed at the amount of new knowledge of people and things you will acquire, and you will be inclined to laugh at the comparatively "blind" people who have never noticed that the acorns on our sixpenny bits are proportionately as big as onions!

There is a story of a famous scientist who was impressing on his students this necessity for observation. He dipped his finger in a bottle and then placed it in his mouth. "Now," he said, "I want each of you to come and do exactly what I have done." One by one the students came up. The first found that the liquid in the bottle was the vilest tasting stuff he had ever come across, but anxious to give his friends a dose, said nothing, and the others followed. When they were all seated once more, the professor shook his head sadly and said: "Gentlemen, you did not really see what I did. The finger I placed in my mouth was not the finger I placed in the bottle."

IMPROVING THE MEMORY

Increasing your powers of observation will give you a new interest in life and increase the cash value of your mind. Hardly less necessary is the power of memory. There are many ways in which it can be improved, but my own experience is that the best memory in the world is not as good as a notebook.

Get into the habit of making a note of everything. Personally, I make notes on the edge of my newspaper when travelling to the office, on matchboxes—in fact on anything that is handy. Bitter experience has taught me that the seemingly useful inspiration of the moment is likely to disappear for ever unless it is written down. The mere act of writing helps to fix it in the mind.

USES OF A DIARY

From time to time it is advisable to go through your notes, destroy those that you do not require, and arrange the remainder systematically for future use. The obvious partner of the notebook should be the diary. How often has a vital post been missed or a form been left unfilled through lack of a diary! I use my diary not only to remind me of appointments, but also to remind me of things I must do, including, perhaps, such things as the last possible day for filling in my income-tax return!

But from the competitor's point of view, perhaps, as well as from the inventor's, the most important part of mind training is the development of the faculty of creative thought. The men and women who make most money in this world are usually those who think originally—often it is called inspiration. Actually, so-called inspiration is a combination of perspiration, concentration, and system.

At the outset it must be taken for granted that there is nothing completely new in the world. Consider one of the most used inventions of recent years—the fountain pen. Inks and pens had been known for centuries before some genius conceived the idea of combining the two. Most inventions and "ideas" are born in that way. The secret of invention is the evolution of a new idea out of two old ones.

NEW IDEAS

Some years ago, for instance, I invented an egg boiler that whistled a warning when the egg was

Man Hanged With Appeal Ready Filed

GRIM COMEDY OF LEGAL ERRORS

CLERK FORGOT HIS DUTY

Los Angeles. A grim comedy of legal errors reached a climax here when court officials solemnly filed an appeal to save the life of a man hanged on April 4.

Rush Griffin, 19-year-old negro, died on the gallows at San Quentin Prison, with an appeal—already perfected, which made stay of execution automatic—resting in files of a lower court clerk's office, apparently forgotten.

Mr. Richard F. Bird, Griffin's counsel, received first news of the negro's execution in newspapers. He promptly started an investigation to determine what happened to the appeal, which he had filed with a transcript of the record.

The Court Clerk, C. K. Boardman, admitted the error. The appeal, made legally effective two months ago—so far as the defence could make it—was still in his office.

"I guess it was our fault," Boardman said. And so, carrying the sequence of blunders to its grim conclusion, he admitted the appeal filed and transmitted to the State Supreme Court, where—if legal machinery does not break down—a stay of execution will be issued to save the life of the dead man.

Mr. Frederick Vercoe, Public Defender, pointed out that "for 14 years notice of stay of execution has been forwarded after the appeal reaches the Supreme Court. It's the first time anything like this has happened," he said. "Maybe we ought to change the law."

Search of records showed the receipt for the stenographic transcript was received by Griffin's attorney last April 2—two days before the date of execution, and in time to have saved his life if it had been forwarded properly by the lower court.

"It is particularly sad," Bird said, "because Griffin's plea of self-defence probably would have resulted in his sentence being commuted to life imprisonment." The negro was accused of way-laying and slaying Mr. Lawrence L. Lyon, medical student, last November 12. He admitted he shot Lyon but insisted he was attacked, and shot in self-defence.

ready. I forgot now the train of thought that led to the invention, but it might very well have been "Steam will blow a whistle—what possible use is that in the average kitchen?" At first sight it might have appeared that there was no possible connection, but hard thinking results in the combination being evolved. This method can be used to create new ideas in every walk of life.

Next, if you would make the most of your mind, you must practise concentration. It is purely a matter of practice and interest. We can all concentrate when we are interested and interest must precede concentration. Before you settle down to think out something, work up your interest. It may be the prize at stake, the hope of making a fortune, or merely the desire to achieve something. Remember that interest must precede concentration, and concentration will become comparatively easy. No one can do good work if he is not enthusiastic, and therefore you must choose interesting subjects. It is better not to work at all if you cannot arouse some interest and happiness.

Train your mind and exercise it as you would your body. You will find not only a new interest in life, but a definite return in pounds, shillings, and pence.

THE DECCA PORTROLA

A complete all electric radio-gram in the compass of an ordinary acoustic portable. Something that—until the introduction of this truly remarkable little instrument was considered out of the question. But the seemingly impossible has been accomplished and DECCA—the inventors of the first acoustic portable—now introduce the world's first portable radio-gram.

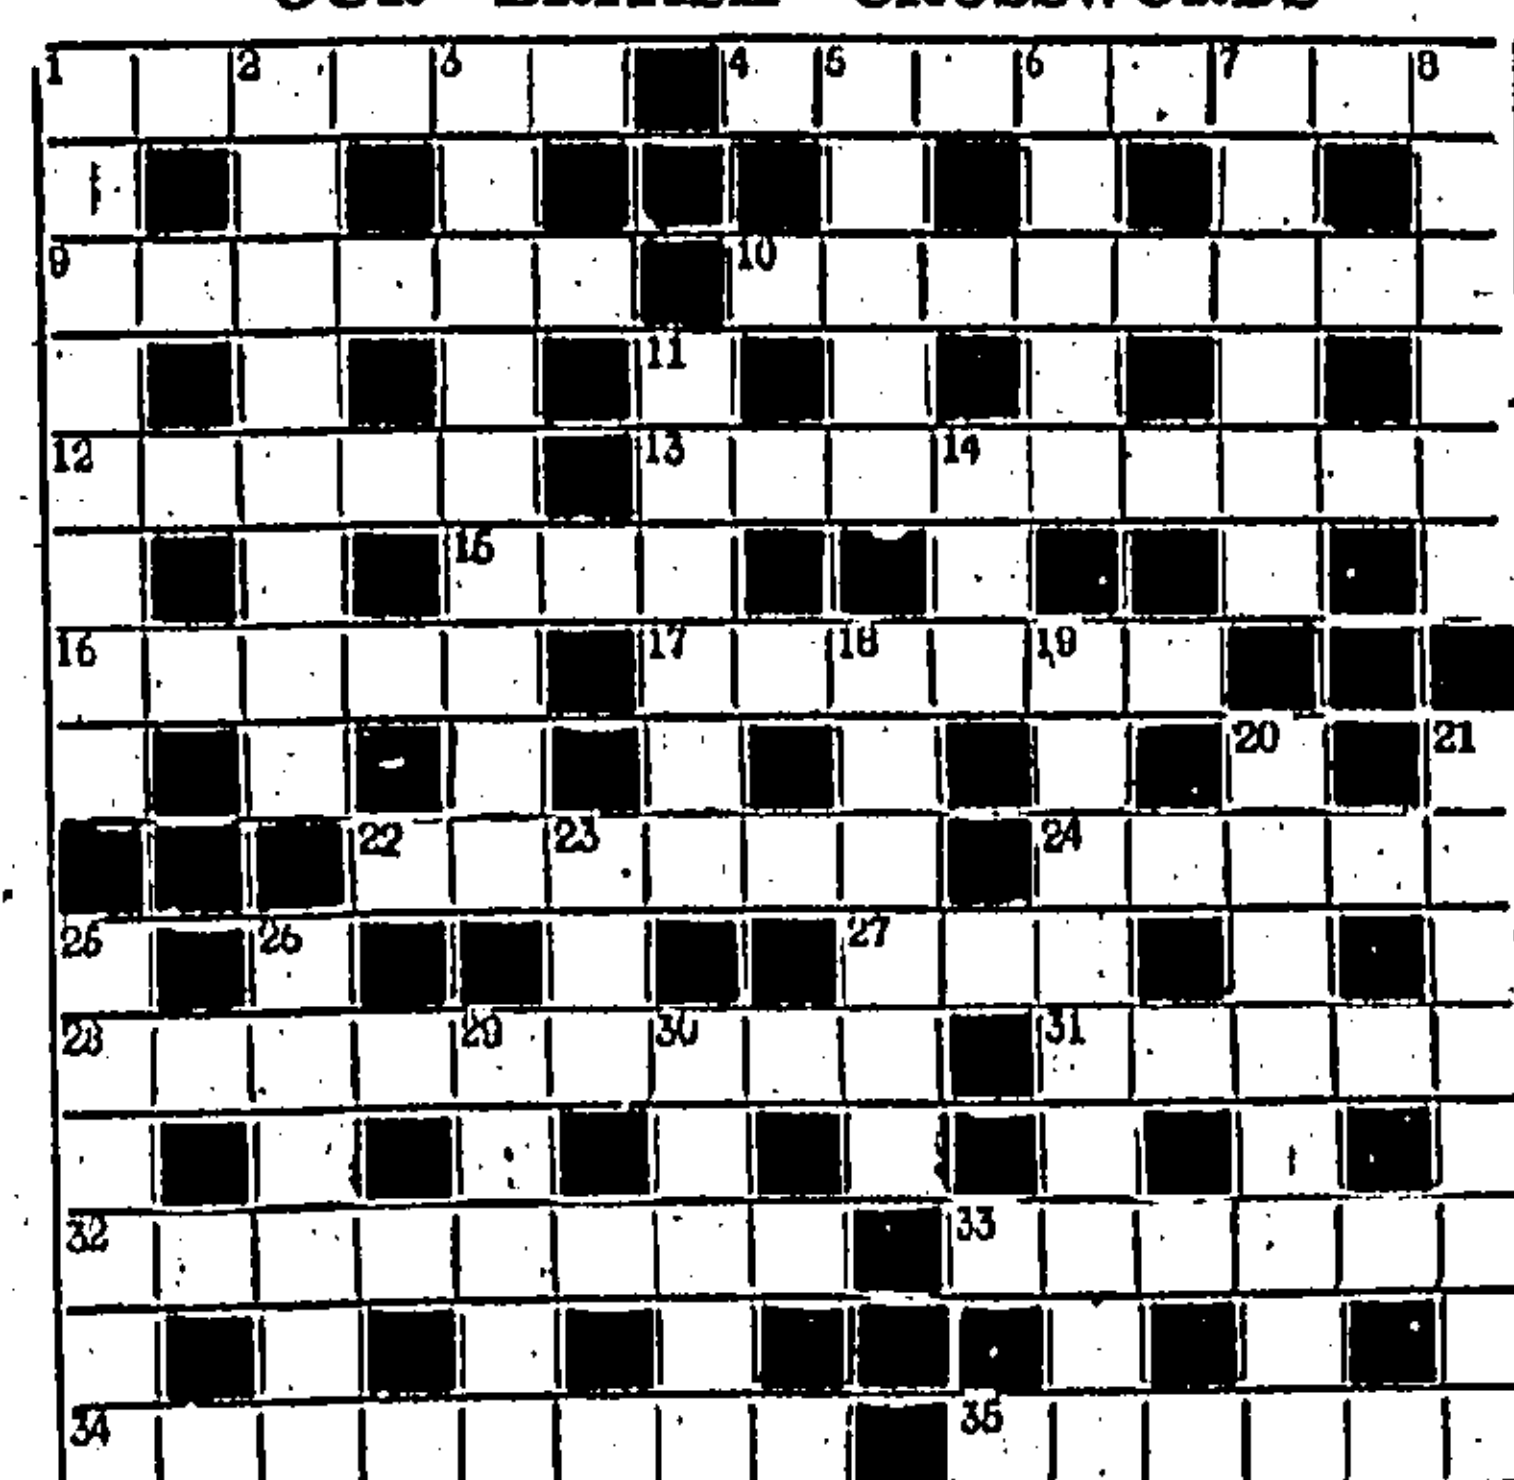

A marvel of ingenuity, the 'Portrola' is distinguished not merely for its portability and novelty, but it really is a highly efficient radio-gram, giving superlative results on radio or records and challenging favourable comparison with most multi-valve receivers.

BUS SWINDLE CASE

DEFENDANTS RECEIVE PRISON SENTENCES

The Kowloon bus ticket forgery case was concluded at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, and Leung Yu-ping, a 32-year-old baker, who was charged on one count of conspiracy, was discharged by Mr. Wynne-Jones. The other defendants were sentenced to varying terms of imprisonment for the part they took in the swindle.

Before the Court rose Mr. A. J. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, who prosecuted, and Detective Inspector A. J. W. Dooling, were congratulated by the Magistrate for the way in which they handled the case.

The charges against the defendants were: Li Pan (21), conductor, the unlawful possession of 72 forged tickets and uttering 28 forged tickets; Li Cheun, (37) conductor, possessing two tickets and uttering 98 tickets; Sat Yu-lam (25), conductor, possessing 10 tickets and uttering 81 tickets; Shum Ping (22), conductor, possessing 69 tickets and uttering 31 tickets; Li Luen (21), conductor, possessing 77 tickets and uttering 123 tickets.

Lau Chun (25), conductor; Leung Yu-ping (32), baker; and the above named five defendants—were also charged with conspiracy with others unknown to defraud the Kowloon Motor Bus Company on April 15 by falsely pretending that certain tickets were made by the Company.

Kwong Kai (40), unemployed, was charged with conspiracy; forgery of tickets at 576, Reclamation Street; and the possession of 765 tickets.

Leung Yiu (19), painter, was charged with conspiracy; forgery of tickets at 283, Portland Street; and possession of 875 tickets.

Defendants Sentenced

The Magistrate in convicting defendants on the conspiracy charge said that in accepting the responsibility to deal with the case summarily, the sentence was limited to 12 months imprisonment. It appeared that most of the accused were the small men in this swindle, and that there were people higher up, who had not been caught. It may have been possible that each of the defendants did not know the conductors involved and were not aware that the swindle was so large. On the charge of conspiracy, which was the most serious of the charges, he passed sentence of six months' hard labour on each of the defendants.

A total of 12 months' hard labour was imposed upon Lai Pan, Li Cheun, Sat Yu-lam, Shum Ping and Li Luen. For conspiring Lau Chun was sentenced to six months. Kwong Kai who was discharged on the forgery charge, received six months' hard labour each on the charges of conspiracy and possession.

Leung Yiu, who admitted the forging of the tickets, received a sentence of six months' hard labour on each charge of conspiracy, forgery and possession.

NORWAY CELEBRATES

ANNIVERSARY OF ADOPTION OF CONSTITUTION

Members of the Norwegian community in Hongkong last night celebrated the 121st anniversary of the adoption of Norway's Constitution.

Independent for centuries, Norway entered into a union with the Kingdom of Denmark in 1381. By treaty of January 14, 1814, the King of Denmark ceded Norway to Sweden, but the Norwegian people declared themselves independent and were united with Sweden under one king.

Over thirty members of the Norwegian community in Hongkong and the officers of Norwegian ships in harbour met in the Jacobean Room of the Hongkong Hotel to celebrate, in common with their countrymen at home, and in all parts of the world, the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

Amongst those present at the function were Mr. K. Larssen (Consul for Norway), Mrs. and Miss Larssen, Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Helberg, Commander and Mrs. Fjende, Rev. N. N. Thelle, Captain and Mrs. P. Heesch, Mrs. Knudsen, Mrs. Bryn, Mrs. Salvesen, Capt. H. Jensen, Capt. A. Stundt, Capt. T. Kvanne, Capt. N. Norvalls, Capt. Sven Larsen, Capt. Roscholdt, Capt. E. Wisner, Messrs. A. Braungard, Kooter, Knudsen, Fingelsen, Bergaust, Odland and R. Heesch.

THE WATERFRONT PROBLEM

Although the recent Hongkong waterfront dispute resulted in a partial and very necessary cleaning-up of a most undesirable situation, there are aspects of the problem which have so far not yielded to treatment, and which are causing considerable concern, to say nothing of actual hardship. In particular, there are many respectable British officers and engineers, with good reputations, anxious to find employment but quite unable to do so. If it were merely a case of these men being the victims of a depression which is not of the Colony's own making, there would be less cause for comment than there is under some of the circumstances which have contributed to the present position. One of these—and probably the biggest factor in the situation—is that, since the recent dispute, vacancies which have occurred on local vessels have been filled by newcomers, to the detriment of men who have every right to consideration. It is not, of course, to be disputed that there are many undesirable types of officers and engineers, in the Colony, men who are no credit to their calling and who are undermining the status of the Merchant Marine. Such are to be found in all ports. But the men whom we have in mind, and consideration for whom we plead, are not of this class; they are reputable mariners, with good records, some having rendered services of very real value to their country in times of stress and emergency, and who are prepared to do so again should the occasion arise. Under present conditions, with the avenues of employment closed to them, they are left with little alternative but to call for relief, a circumstance which, incidentally, makes them an indirect burden on the community. Some are too proud to apply through the usual channels for the aid of which they stand in urgent need. One of the worst features of the situation is to be found in the belief amongst many of these men that they are being victimised for having stood by the principles for which their Guilds stand. Whilst there is no evidence that there is any widespread ignoring on the part of owners of the arbitration scale of wages, rumour has it that at least one company may replace men engaged in Hongkong on the standard scale by others, in Shanghai, who are prepared to accept lower pay. If that is the

NOTES OF THE DAY

NEARER SECURITY?

PUNLOK Spt.
Mr. Anthony Eden, the Lord Privy Seal, remarked yesterday that Germany's chief cause for fear lay in the East of Europe, at the entrance to that great and growing Empire of Communism. Mr. Eden added that, in his estimation, the German apprehension was very much exaggerated. Russia, he believed, and so do many with him, has her hands much too full of her own affairs even to think of aggression against a neighbour nation. Germany, however, distrusts the Russian Soviet. Germany has a feeling that France has not forgiven her for the damage done in the last four years of the European war and that the pact with Russia may be more than an arrangement for the defence of the nations concerned. And since Russia's propagandists have already caused the Reich considerable embarrassment, since the Communist International is bent upon the destruction of its rival "isms" throughout the world, monarchisms, Fascisms, Nazisms, included, even at the cost of war, a literal translation of the Russian threat must be an alarming thing to Germany. Now France, first of the great republics, with more than a Red tinge to her politics these days, joins Russia in a defensive alliance which is calculated to prevent attack by any European power. There is an element in Germany which feels that a pact of this sort will make for serious danger. France and Russia, protected by this agreement, will be enabled to build up so great a fighting force as to make them invincible against the world. And who shall say them nay?

PEACE OR PANIC

It is conceivable, then, that this Franco-Russian understanding, which Czechoslovakia is about to join, may be a source of trouble, rather than a guarantee of peace. It will possibly gear up the German militarist machine, send Germany's diplomats hunting for protective alliances of a similar nature, or else—and this is the happy alternative—it will bring Germany into line as a candidate for membership in that very international group whose power she seems to fear. M. Laval, it is rumoured, has been invited to Berlin. Does it mean that Chancellor Hitler has seen the advisability of compromise? Does it mean that an Eastern Locarno pact is at hand? That Germany, France, Poland, Russia and the lesser Middle-European states will guarantee that if any one of them breaks the rules the rest will insist upon payment of penalties? If so M. Laval and M. Litvinoff have made a contribution to the cause of peace which is as yet incalculable, but which promises much.

TO-DAY'S MOTORING HINT

DECARBONISING

Most owner-drivers realise the necessity for tightening up the nuts which hold the detachable head in position in rotation when assembling the engine. Many do not, however, appreciate that there is just the same need for slackening off the nuts when the head is being removed for decarbonising. If one nut is entirely loosened at a time the extra strain imposed on the head may cause it to become distorted.

When all the nuts have been removed and the head is to be taken off, it is a mistake to insert a screw-driver or any other instrument between the faces, since this generally damages them. Leverage can be obtained on the lip which is formed on the head.

After the carbon has been removed it pays to spend a little extra time polishing the cylinder heads and piston tops. This can be done easily with a pan-cleaning ball and oil. Polished parts make for a sweeter running engine.

case, the matter would appear to be one calling for serious attention by the appropriate authorities. Shanghai is, in fact, looked upon in some quarters as a base for the employment of cheap men. The situation generally is undoubtedly aggravated by the fact that the free influx is permitted, without let or hindrance, of outsiders from other centres. When all is said and done, Hongkong is a British Colony, and in view of our dependence on shipping for our actual existence, the least that can be done is to see that British officers and engineers, of proved worth, are given a chance of earning their livelihood. There are many aspects of the problem needing attention. As a first move, it might be wise if an inquiry, representative of the Government, shipowners and the Guilds, were to be held into the whole question of the employment of British mariners locally.

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee

The King and the Duke of Connaught.

Son of Queen Victoria and uncle of King George, the Duke of Connaught had considerable influence on the British royal family.

Long experience in court life, to say nothing of his military and diplomatic career, made the Duke of Connaught one of the King's most trusted advisers from the moment he ascended the throne.

To-day he still retains that status, though he is well past the eighty-year mark.

Our picture shows the King and the duke in 1928, just before King George was stricken with an illness that nearly robbed the empire of a beloved monarch. It was taken on the occasion of the ceremony of the installation of the new Knights of the Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath, of which the duke is great master.

In 1911 the Duke of Connaught had been governor-general of Canada, the first royal prince to have been so appointed. His daughter, Princess Patricia, was famed through the land for her charm and loveliness, and a Canadian army unit was formed when war broke out called the Princess Pats. They had an entirely different fame, however, winning the reputation of being one of the hardest fighting units at the front.

"Well, you see, madam, this is the first request we've had for a dog's bathing suit."

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Butts

Full marks to the man who described the big Jubilee event as the Drag-On Procession.

In finding solution for Hongkong's depression some people never seem to run short of ideas. A case of perpetual notion.

One idea which the Brighter Hongkong Committee appears to have overlooked is the desirability of a law making the occupation of shroffs an illegal calling.

A lawyer defending a man charged with robbery pleaded that his client was suffering from "inherited glandular maladjustment." Something wrong with his gland-parents, possibly.

A reader wants to know: "Where is the Colony headed?" Dunno, but possibly we won't stay there long if we ever get there.

Some of these brokers who predict a higher dollar should be prosecuted for fortune-telling.

A reader thinks Hongkong needs a social revolution. But that would be rather difficult when all the available followers feel smart enough to be the leader.

We suppose the lady typists at the League of Nations office wear armless frocks.

A psychologist says one mind can affect another at a distance. We've noticed that when hubby turns pale after tramping his wife's ace.

There was a time when, in the interests of good digestion, people used to chew each mouthful of food a certain number of times. Now they do it to get their money's worth.

Some folk never seem to be able to appreciate humour over the radio. Maybe they'll see the jokes when television comes.

"A husband should tell his wife everything," says a lady writer. That's not much use; she'll find out more than that.

To-day in the Garden:—Birds.

To-day in the Birds:—Our seeds!

The pity about some of these self-made men is that they don't carry out extensive alterations.

Ukuleles with one string are now on the market. But we shan't be really happy until they make them without any.

Which reminds us that cowboy songs are again becoming very popular. Almost everybody sings them except cowboys.

It may be a good thing to give credit where credit is due, but it's much better to be paid in real hard cash.

A nod often means a lot at an auction sale.

Smaller watches are now the fashion for men. Times are certainly changing.

An oculist says there's something seriously wrong when people see double. Yes; often a matter of glasses.

It's no joke being a moth these days; even bathing costumes hardly provide a decent mouthful.

Then there was the schoolboy who thought that stabilisation meant the provision of modern stabling for racehorses.

OATH OF OFFICE

SIR THOMAS SOUTHERN AS O.A.G.

As the Empress of Japan steamed through Lyemun Channel at 4.45 p.m. yesterday, bearing Sir William Peel and Lady Peel out of the Colony, the Legislative Council was assembling at the Colonial Secretary's Office to witness Sir Thomas Southern take the oath of allegiance as the Officer Administering the Government.

The ceremony took place at 4 p.m. in the presence of Councillors and distinguished members of the public. Lady Southern and Mr. H. Phillips, British Consul for Canton, were among those present when His Honour the Chief Justice entered the Chamber in full-bottomed wig and gown preceded by the Mace and accompanied by Mr. E. P. H. Lang, Court Registrar. Mr. R. A. D. Forrest, Deputy Clerk of Councils, read the Orders in Council relating to the change of office, and Sir Thomas read the oaths and appended his signature whilst the company remained standing.

Sir Thomas then requested all to be seated and said: "Your Excellency, Your Honours and Gentlemen—I thank you for your attendance here to-day at this brief but significant ceremony and I know that I can rely on your advice and co-operation in the discharge of the respective duties of my office at this difficult period of the Colony's history. I am more than thankful that in the responsibilities which will devolve upon me I shall have the support and assistance of my wife who takes an equal interest with my own in the social welfare of the community. I desire specially to thank His Honour the Chief Justice who has attended in person to administer the Oaths of Office with the customary ceremony."

A Grievous Loss

Gentlemen, within the last hour this Colony has suffered a grievous loss in the departure of one of the best loved and most successful Governors Hongkong has ever had. The public of Hongkong has already had the opportunity on the platform and in the press of expressing to Sir William Peel the esteem and affection which he has won from all its varied sections. We who have been privileged to work in close contact with him during the past five years know well the kindness of heart with which he approached every problem, the ability with which he handled every difficulty and the courage with which he carried out his arduous duties. No one can have failed to admire the spirit with which, in spite of his recent illness, Sir William Peel carried through his heavy programme of engagements during the last few weeks rather than disappoint those to whom he had pledged himself.

In all his work for the Colony Sir William had the ready and effective help of Lady Peel of whose many social activities the most enduring memorial is the inauguration of Infant Welfare work in Hongkong. The Violet Peel Health Centre opened this week is a lasting tribute to Lady Peel's intense personal interest in the children of this Colony.

Gentlemen, the Colony owes a debt of gratitude to Sir William and Lady Peel and I know it will be your wish that I should telegraph to them in the name of the Colony bidding them farewell and wishing them health and happiness. With your concurrence I propose to send them the following telegram.—Sir William Peel, S.S. Empress of Japan.—Executive and Legislative Councils assembled with Chief Justice and Puisne Judge for swearing-in ceremony desire in the name of the whole Colony to express to Lady Peel and yourself their heartfelt regret at your departure, their deep appreciation of your devoted labours for the Colony's welfare and their best wishes for a safe and pleasant voyage and for your future health and happiness.—Southern" (Applause).

The assembly then dispersed.

Those Present

Among those present were: His Excellency the Governor, Officer Commanding the Troops, Major General O. C. Barrett, C.B., C.M.G., C.B.E., B.S.O.; The Acting Colonial Secretary (Hon. Mr. D. H. Trotman, C.M.G.); The Attorney General (Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster, K.C., O.B.E.); The Secretary for Chinese Affairs (Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith); The Colonial Treasurer (Hon. Mr. E. Taylor); Hon. Commander G. F. Hole, R.N. (retired), (Harbour Master); Hon. Dr. W. B. A. Moore (Acting Director of Medical and Sanitary Services); Hon. Mr. M. J. Breen (Postmaster General); Hon. A BROKEN DOWN SYSTEM. This is a condition (or disease) to which many names are given but few really understand. It is simply weakness—a break down as it were, of the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be its cause (they are almost numberless), its symptoms are much the same: the more prominent being sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weariness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what is essential in

THIRD CENTURY SCORED IN SUCCESSIVE INNINGS

FORMER SHANGHAI GOLFER

JIM FERRIER IN LIME LIGHT

ANOTHER TRIBUTE TO SKILL

The Sydney Referee of April 4 records another remarkable feat by young Jim Ferrier, the former Shanghai boy whose progress round Australia's golf courses in the past few years has been an almost uninterrupted triumphal march. Says the Referee—

In a practice round from the back tees at Manly, the N. S. Wales amateur champion, Jim Ferrier, at the weekend, had a 67, equalling the record of the course. The round was the more remarkable, inasmuch as Ferrier knew that every shot he made was being recorded by a movie camera, the operator on numerous occasions being within a few feet of him. That he was able to do so well in the circumstances was a tribute to his powers of concentration. Most players in similar conditions would have been unable to do themselves justice. Several times, when Ferrier was about to make his stroke, he was asked to wait until the cameraman was ready for him.

Par of the first nine holes is 37, and Ferrier was out in 33 (4, 4, 2, 4, 4, 4, 3, 4). He had four birdies—at the third, fifth, seventh, and ninth—and five pars. The birdie four at the ninth was a particularly good effort, the distance being 557 yards. Par coming home is 36. Ferrier's figures being 34 (3, 3, 4, 4, 3, 4, 0, 3, 4). No round is as good as it might have been. Ferrier dropped a stroke at the long 16th (580 yards), his third, designed to reach the green, being pulled into a bad lie. He dropped another at the par-3 18th, his tee shot being pin high but wide of the green. His 8ft. putt for a 3 rimmed the hole.

Ferrier stated afterwards that playing with the knowledge that a camera was depicting his every movement was making the shot a much harder ordeal than playing with a competition card. Interested fellow members extended to him their hearty congratulations on his fine effort in conditions probably unique, in Australia.

TRY OUT NEXT MONTH

Berkeley, Calif., May 11. "Pop" Fuller, former coach of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody in the days when she was known as "Little Miss Poker Face," announced to-day that Mrs. Moody's first step in her attempted come back will take place on June 8th in the State Tennis Tournament. If she is successful, the former National champion may participate in the Nationals at Forest Hills later in the summer.—United Press.

NOTT'S NOT CERTAIN

WEAKNESS IN BOWLING

CRICKET TEAM'S PROSPECTS

It is difficult to forecast what kind of a season Notts will experience during 1935. Since the start of 1935 the Club has been engulfed in many controversies, but all hope that these are now ended, and that Notts will regain the position that she formerly held.

The captaincy will be jointly undertaken by S. D. Rhodes and G. F. Heane.

All the following professionals are available: Walker, Lilley, Staples (A.), Larwood, Voce, Keeton, Harris, Gunn, G. V., Hardstaff, Butler, Wheat, Winrow (H.), Winrow (R.), Taylor, Castledine, Knowles, Barlow, Jones, Woodhead, Bradley, and Walker (G.). The two latter are newly engaged.

It is not possible to say when Keeton will be available. He had had a very nasty accident during the close season, from which he has suffered serious injuries. This is unfortunate as he is one of the county's most consistent batsmen, and a brilliant fielder. No doubt Taylor, who played in several games last year, and whose batting has improved, will again appear with the eleven. Walker, who played in very few games in 1934, is now fit, and will be able to take his place in the side again, and along with Hardstaff, who must now be considered a candidate for England, should strengthen the batting. Arthur Staples and George Gunn are also men who can get runs.

It is, however, in bowling that the side is weak, for there is little variety. Larwood and Voce will both be available, while, as change bowlers, there are Butler, Staples A., Gunn and Harris. A spin bowler is much needed, preferably a left-hander, but one cannot be found, although over a hundred were tried out last year.

Lilley will again keep wicket, and this season is taking a well-earned benefit. He has chosen the match against Yorkshire at Trent Bridge in July. Since succeeding Oates as wicket-keeper in 1921, he has had the extremely difficult task of keeping wicket to such fast bowlers as Barratt, Matthews, Larwood, Voce and Butler. As a batsman his place in the side would certainly have been higher but for his duties at the wicket. He has been a loyal and valuable member of the side, and it is hoped that lovers of cricket will do their utmost to recognise his work and make his benefit a success.

The players assembled on April 15 at Trent Bridge. Given the much needed peace in the cricket world, Notts should meet with more than usual success, and their place should be higher in the table than last year.

THE LITTLE GIRL FROM CHILE CLEVER TENNIS PLAYER

ANITA LIZANA WINS

(By FRANK POXON)

Birmingham, April 23. The first real test of "the little girl from Chile," Senorita Anita Lizana, came yesterday at the Tally Ho! tournament at Birmingham.

She met in the semi-final Miss K. E. Stammers, who ranks as England's No. 3 player. The fact that the Senorita won at 4-1, 6-1, tells its own story.

Miss Stammers was much the harder hitter, but Anita was much the cleverer player. She reminded me of Suzanne Lenglen at many moments for her head was always helping her feet. She never tried to retrieve an "impossible" ball. She just laughed and said, "Good shot."

Her drop shots were perfect and the crowd was astonished by her speed.

After the match she said to me: "I am more excited than I have ever been in my life. I am excited at being in England and excited at doing well in my first big tournament. I think I must write home and get permission to live in England always, but I wonder how I shall get on with your grass courts."

And then she added a remark which has really nothing to do with lawn tennis.

"You are all so friendly to everybody in England and you don't seem to hate anybody."

The Senorita is going to be "in the news" this year. She has ability, charm and personality. She will go far.

A. D. NOURSE DELIGHTS ENGLISH FANS

HEAVY SCORING MATCH AT OXFORD

SOUTH AFRICAN CRICKETERS' HIGH AVERAGE

London, May 17.

Following immediately upon his century in each innings against Surrey at the Oval during the beginning of the week A. D. Nourse, the hard-hitting South African batsman, rattled up 148 runs against Oxford University at Oxford where the match was left drawn.

There was some exceptionally tall scoring and altogether 1,170 runs were scored for the loss of 21 wickets, an average of 56 runs per wicket! Of this aggregate the South Africans were responsible for 741 for the loss of eleven wickets or an average of over 67 runs per wicket.

The tourists had first lease of the wickets and had young Nourse to thank for their total of 372, the son of "Dave" Nourse collecting 148 of the runs.

In response to this score Oxford compiled 429 runs. N. S. Mitchell-Innes, their most consistent batsman helping himself to 168 and A. Benn to 90.

The South Africans were not to be outdone by the prolific scoring of their opponents and in their second innings they played out time to score 369 runs for the loss of one wicket, that of their captain and opening batsman, H. P. Wade, who scored 89 runs before dismissal.

It was Siedle and Rowan who offered the greatest resistance to the Oxford bowlers. They were still associated at the close of play. Siedle had 164 runs to his credit and Rowan 104.

DEFEAT FOR MIDDLESEX

Spectators at Lord's were solely disappointed in their wicketkeepers when they entertained Warwickshire and lost by 144 runs. The visitors put on 164 for their first innings in which R. W. V. Robins took six wickets for 58 runs. Paine dismissed five Middlesex batsmen for 34 runs and held the Lord's side to bat 112 runs.

When Warwickshire had their second knock they were able to declare at 253 for seven, Croome having made 101 of the runs, Middlesex could do no better than 161, Maynard taking six for 46.

Yorkshire showed a welcome return to form by beating Cambridge by seven wickets after dismissing the undergraduates for 97 runs. Verity again figured prominently for his side by taking seven for 39.

The county's side replied with a total of 268 and although Bartlett scored an unfinished 113 for Cambridge the University's second innings total only reached 229. With three wickets down Yorkshire knocked off 61 runs for victory.

SUSSEX SECURE WIN

Worcestershire secured an eight wicket victory over Hampshire at Worcester where the visitors registered totals of 167 and 275. In their second innings Arnold made 132 while Parks took seven for 77. Worcestershire's replies were 354 and 90 for two.

In the South of England cricketers look to Sussex to deprive the North of the championship honours but the County have not been very promising in their opening matches. However, when matched against Notts at Hove they were able to secure a win by 338 runs.

In their first innings Sussex scored 180, Voce taking six for 40 and in their second they declared at 325 for seven, Melville scoring 101. Notts were dismissed for 69 and 98. Tate captured six of their second innings wickets for 27 runs.—Reuter.

YANKEE'S VISIT TO ENGLAND

Distinguished Crew Engaged

When Yankee joins the big British racing yachts this season she will have what is without doubt the strongest combination of talent ever seen on board one vessel. Her skipper is to be Mr. Charles Francis Adams, a former Secretary of the United States Navy, whom many believe to be the finest helmsman in America. It will be recalled that in the last trial to select the America's Cup defender he was defeated by Mr. Vanderbilt by only one second.

Yankee's designer, Mr. Frank C. Paine, is another member of her "after-guard"—as the Americans style the officers and amateurs in their vessels. Mr. F. C. Paine's knowledge of the rigging of big vessels is unrivalled. Another distinguished amateur sailor who will sail in Yankee is Mr. Jack Parkinson. His services were requested for Rainbow when she defeated our challenger Endeavour. He is known to many English yachtsmen, for he was aboard Highland Light in the Atlantic race of 1931. The owner of Yankee, Mr. Conrad B. Lambert, who too, is a talented helmsman, will take in all the contests over here.

During her Atlantic voyage Yankee will be commanded by her designer, Mr. Paine.

Blue, and present holder of the South African singles title, V. G. Kirby, Max Bertram and J. Hendrie—these four will play in the Davis Cup tie against Poland at Warsaw on May 17, 18 and 19—and Musgrove and W. Muir.

WILL KNOCK OUT CARNERA

IN FIFTH ROUND OF FIGHT

JOE LOUIS IS CONFIDENT

Detroit, May 10.

Dynamite fisted Joe Louis, the twenty-year-old Detroit negro who has been bowling over all comers in his march towards the top of the heavyweight ladder, foresees a quick win for himself over Primo Carnera, former heavyweight champion.

"It isn't going to last more than five rounds," said Joe, discussing the fifteen round fight which has been fixed for him with Primo in New York on June 10.

The fight will be Louis' first over the fifteen round distance.

Since turning professional, the "Brown Bomber," as he is called, has won sixteen fights, of which thirteen were by knockouts. Referring to the moving pictures of the Baer-Carnera heavyweight championship last year, Louis said that he really believed that Baer was trying to knock Carnera out before the fight was stopped in the eleventh round, and that he felt that he could do the job much quicker.

Louis, who hits extremely hard, is regarded as one of the best heavyweight prospects seen for a long time and many believe that he will be squaring up to Max Baer for a world's title bout before long. At first it appeared as though the colour line might prevent him from a shot at the title, but Baer has promised that he will not allow that to stand in Joe's way if he gets the chance of a title fight.—Reuter.

BAER RESUMES TRAINING

Recent Incident Not Publicity Stunt

Asbury Park, N. J., May 13. Max Baer, the world's heavyweight champion, to-day resumed training on the estate of Hal P. Sims, noted bridge expert, for his June 13 bout with Jimmy Braddock, none the worse for the shooting incident of last week which left a wide burn down the middle of his chest and put him to bed for two days.

Simultaneously the county prosecutor revealed his investigation showed the episode "was accidental and not a publicity stunt."

Meanwhile Baer expressed belief his wound would result in at least a week's postponement of actual boxing practice which he said he might possibly resume towards the end of the week.

Describing the accident Baer said: "We were rehearsing my broadcast of a weekly detective skit where in we use a revolver. The regular gun didn't make enough noise."

"The sound effect man stood on my left with a weak popgun. Jerry Casalo (Baer's trainer) stood at my right with his own gun."

"Jerry said his gun would make more noise and it did. When his gun discharged it grazed my chest and knocked plaster off the wall."—United Press.

CLUB DE RECREIO BOWLERS

Challenging For Senior Championship Title

(By "Sagax")

The Club de Recreio senior lawn bowls team seriously threatens to regain their prominence of the year when they nearly won the championship after receiving promotion from the junior division. They have quickly recovered from the loss, two years ago, of some of their foremost players and now they are challenging the Craignower C. C. for the premier position.

The Portuguese have made a strong start and, with the Craignower C. C., are the only undefeated club in the senior division. Their players have been playing consistently well although the side owes much to the rink skipped by C. G. Silva, the inter-port player. He has been winning regularly and excelled himself last Saturday when he beat the Kowloon B. G. C. rink skipped by H. Nish by 35 shots.

The recent defeats suffered by Hughie Nish as skip have given the selectors much food for thought in their team building and an experiment they have re-shuffled their side. W. S. Drake, who had a very successful season last year, following his promotion to the first division, is to be given charge of Nish's rink while J. C. Brown, the former Kowloon Dock player is going No. 3 to Adam Holland. What would probably strengthen the third rink would be to appoint Brown skip. He has had a lot of experience and is still one of the Colony's best players.

Today the Kowloon B. G. C. will be at home to the Kowloon Dock R. C. and although the Senior Club are infinitely stronger at home than away, the Kowloon Dock side have been able to give them a good run for the points.

CRAIGNOWER RIVALRY

The Craignower C. C. premier side will again enter their "B" combination to-day and with last year's defeat still fresh in mind the senior players will not take their club mates too easily this afternoon. The "B" team are well up among the top teams and are quite capable of repeating last season's decision.

The Indian R. C. should again find that their victory over the Kowloon Bowling Green was due, to a great extent, to the advantage of playing on their own green and when they visit the Club de Recreio at King's Park, to-day they will meet with such strong opposition that they will probably leave with a large deficit against them.

The Portuguese side have some useful players and if keenness goes for anything they will be at the top or very near the top of the league at the end of the season.

OPEN CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Open Championship matches during the past week provided many thrills, even though the competition is still in the first round stage. The elimination of B. W. Bradbury and U. M. Omar by J. Fraser and A. Hyde Lay was the first real upset of the competitions.

The Kowloon C. C. pair certainly deserved to win on the day's play but it was not due altogether to their individual superiority that they qualified for the second round. On paper the Craignower C. C. representatives are one of the strongest pairs in the competition but as a combination they do not show the same understanding as do other pairs.

A more formidable, or two more formidable, partnerships would have been formed if Bradbury and Omar each entered with one of their club's number ones. If Omar had had A. E. Contes, J. S. Landolt or G. L. Buchanan he would have had a good chance of winning the championship. The same applies to Bradbury.

There are occasions in pairs matches when two players hold entirely different views through being used to skipping and if there is any difference of opinion the combination will suffer rather than gain through its strong individual representation. That is why it is never advisable to include too many skips in an interport rink.

TITLE HOLDER BEATEN

Last year's all-conquering Colony Champion, A. W. Grimmitt, has quickly fallen from grace and in his first match he was beaten by A. M. Holland by the narrowest possible margin.

After the officials of the Lawn Bowls Association saw the condition of the Police green they were unanimous that matches should not be allocated to this green if it can be avoided. The Indian R. C. green may also come under official condemnation and may be ruled out as far as championship matches are concerned.

The draw for the second round of the Pairs Championship was made last night and it will have already been noticed that no matches will be played on the Police green.

Some enthusiasts who have been attending the local championship matches have been giving conveners of clubs room for complaint by unnecessarily walking across the green with their heeled shoes and causing unnecessary damage to the turf. This is an act of discourtesy to the club on whose green the game is played and visitors should respect clubs' hospitality.

NEXT INTERPORT

Shanghai Cricketers To Visit Hongkong

Hongkong will be the venue of another triangular interport cricket series in November if present plans of the Hongkong Cricket Club materialise.

Shanghai will definitely come down at the end of the year. The cricket season up there commenced last week. An invitation will be sent to Malaya as well but it is doubtful whether they will be able to make the trip.

In the past it has been customary for a Malaya team to visit Hongkong once every four years. The last time a Malaya team came up was in November 1933, less than two years ago.

Mr. A. K. Mackenzie, the Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Cricket Club, said yesterday that Shanghai will come down in November, but he was not sure about Malaya. "We will send them an invitation," he stated.

A meeting to be held next week will make arrangements for the forthcoming interport, which will take place round about Armistice Day.

It will be recalled that Malaya won the Triangular Tournament in 1933, despite having a weakened team. Shanghai, considered to be the strongest side of the three, lost both to Hongkong and Malaya.

VALEDICTORY

Albert Howe Sails

Mr. Albert Howe, the Hongkong Football Club centre-forward who has represented Hongkong in interport matches, sailed for Shanghai, on transfer, aboard the Empress of Japan yesterday afternoon.

Early in 1931 Howe came to Hongkong on transfer and since that time has played for the Club in the local league. He first played for Hongkong in November 1932 and he has also played in the Isthmian League in England whilst on home leave.

In the last interport match against Shanghai Howe proved himself a very able leader and scored three goals for the Colony when Shanghai lost by seven goals to one.

FAREWELL GIFT TO HAMPTON

AUSTRALIAN TEAM COMING

OPEN PAIRS DRAW FOR 2ND ROUND

A gold pocket watch is to be presented to Mr. Harry Hampton, former Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association, who leaves for England at the end of the month.

The presentation will take place at the Kowloon Cricket Club at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, May 28, and all lawn bowlers in Hongkong are asked to be present. Owing to the large number of bowlers in the Colony who have subscribed towards the present it is impossible to notify each individually; and enthusiasts should note that no official intimation will be sent by the Association.

AUSTRALIAN VISIT

Information has been received by the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association of the intention of an Australian bowling team to visit the Colony during the current year. In a letter to the Hongkong Association, Messrs. Thomas Cook & Son have asked what arrangements can be made for the tourists.

It was suggested by the Sub-Committee of the Association at a meeting last evening that they intimate the best time to visit the Colony would be October, when the weather would be more certain. However, the local Association will try to accommodate the tourists at whatever time they may visit Hongkong.

DRAW FOR PAIRS TOURNEY

The Committee made the draw for the second round of the Pairs Championship and at the same time changed the greens for all matches, which were previously allocated to the Police R. C. and Indian R. THREW AWAY HIS STICK

When Sciatica Yielded to Kruschen

There can be no doubt that this man has finished walking with a stick, for it is now four years since he discarded it.

He writes: "For 18 months I suffered with chronic sciatica and rheumatism, and was unable to walk without the aid of a stick. But after taking Kruschen Salts for a short time, I was able to throw away the stick. It is now four years since this happened, and I have had no return of the complaint, and have not lost a day from work. I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, as they are worth their weight in gold."—G. F.

If the eliminating organs become sluggish, they permit harmful uric acid to accumulate and deposit itself in the tissues, muscles and joints in the form of needle-pointed crystals, which, piercing the nerve sheaths, cause excruciating pains of sciatica. The six salts in Kruschen stimulate the eliminating organs to healthy, regular action. Mischiefous uric acid is then given no chance to collect.

CINEMA NEWSNOTES FROM THE THEATRES

Two of the cinema's most brilliant stars, Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery are coming to-morrow to the Queen's Theatre in one of the season's outstanding photoplays. It is "Vanessa: Her Love Story", adaptation of Hugh Walpole's saga of the spectacular Herries family. Brimming with high romance, rich with the idealistic sweetness of the last generation, the story tells of the tender tale of a woman who, loving one man with all the blind adoration of youth, is persuaded to accept marriage with another. Helen Hayes has seldom, if ever, equalled her performance in the role of the Walpole heroine. And certainly Montgomery never has done a finer or more believable bit of work than as first, the wild Rogues Herries and then the modern Benjie who inherits his ancestors' wild strain. With the stars is Otto Kruger in one of the season's most difficult roles—that of the mad husband of Miss Hayes, making her life unbearable by his crafty suspicions. Kruger has never had a more tricky role, and it is with difficulty that one can imagine an actor who could have played it with more sincerity. With these is an outstanding cast, each of whom deserves special attention. They include such favourites as May Robson, Lewis Stone, Henry Stephenson, Donald Crisp, Jessie Ralph, Lionel Barrymore, George K. Arthur and many more.

"The Little Minister"

Heralded as a challenge to all the star's previous successes, and as one of the big events of the motion picture year is the screen version of Sir James Barrie's hauntingly beautiful romance, "The Little Minister", which serves Katharine Hepburn as her new vehicle, showing to-day at the King's Theatre. For this picture, RKO Radio re-created the quaint charm of Thrum in Scotland, and around it director Richard Wallace has staged a romance with all the qualities of whimsical delicacy which Barrie expressed. Katharine Hepburn recreates in her inimitable mood the character of Babbie made famous on the stage by Maude Adams. Amidst the wild and untamed Scottish moors the elfish Babbie leads her persecutors and her lover a merry chase.

Richard Wallace, who directed the making of the Barrie classic, has made his romance around the Auld Licht Kirk one of strange and haunting charm. John Bear, from the Broadway stage, is said to play the role of the "Little Minister" with a splendid touch. That favourite trouper Alan Hale, is also featured as the forthright town drunkard.

Now they are co-starred in one of the greatest love stories of all times, Hugh Walpole's famed "Vanessa." When Helen Hayes says: "He has the devil in him . . . but I love him," she echoes the thought of many a girl who adores a beloved rogue. M-G-M promises you the first truly gripping romantic hit of 1935.

luxurious haunts of New York to the pleasure palaces of Florida and back again. Franchot Tone has the male lead with Miss Harlow. The cast includes such well-known stars as Lionel Barrymore, Patry Kelly, Lewis Stone and Alan Mowbray.

"Of Human Bondage"

The combination of one of the greatest stars of the stage and screen, Leslie Howard, and one of the greatest stories in modern literature, make RKO-Radio's "Of Human Bondage," which opened yesterday at the Star Theatre, one of the most entertaining dramatic pictures to emerge from Hollywood this year. Leslie Howard desired to star in "Of Human Bondage," and W. Somerset Maugham wanted a player of Howard's fine histrionic calibre to play in his story. Howard's dramatic power and sympathetic interpretation exceeds anything he has done before. Betty Davis comes through with her greatest performance as Mildred. In other prominent roles, Frances Dee as Sally offers her finest portrayal since Moxie in "Little Women," and Kay Johnson portrays Nora with conspicuous aptitude. Strong characterizations are contributed by Reginald Denry, Reginald Owen and Reginald Sheffield.

"The Captain Hates the Sea"
"The Captain Hates the Sea" the Columbia production now on bill at the Queen's Theatre is a tidal wave of laughs. It will rock you from stem to stern and provide hilarious situations in which are seen ten stars, all of whom are good fun-makers. Victor McLaglen is a detective on board a ship in the trail of a crook and his accomplice. John Gilbert is also aboard as a newspaperman who failed in Hollywood and is returning to New York to try to forget the woman he loves. The feminine interest is supplied by Helen Vinson and other ladies in the cast include Alison Skipworth, Tina Birell and Wynne Gibson. In the role of the Captain who detests the sea Walter Connolly is more than adequate while the antics of Leon Errol are the highlights of the production. This Columbia production was directed by Lewis Milestone who took his crew and cast out to sea for three weeks to get the necessary scenes.

"Under Pressure"
Of the several hundred players appearing in Fox Film's exciting picture of tunnel-driving, "Under Pressure," which comes on Wednesday to the King's Theatre, only one man really felt at home in the huge tunnel set constructed for the production. That man was Charles Bickford, noted screen "hard guy," who enacts the role of Moran, Victor McLaglen's enemy and leading boss of the rival tunnel crew. Bickford, who graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a degree as a construction engineer, worked for a long period on the building of the subway tube under the Charles River between Cambridge and Boston before he went on the stage. Produced by Robert T.

Kane, "Under Pressure," with its unique story and setting promises to be one of the most thrilling screen offerings of recent years.

"Sunset Pass"
All the breathlessness, excitement and thrills that Zane Grey can pack into a story are crammed into "Sunset Pass," latest of his stories to reach the screen, which is scheduled to open at the Alhambra Theatre Wednesday next. A large cast, headed by Randolph Scott, Tom Keene, Kathleen Burke, Noah Beery and Harry Carey is featured in the film. "Sunset Pass" is the twenty-eighth of the stories by the famous western novelist which have appeared in movie form. It was directed by Henry Hathaway, who, after directing half-a-dozen other Zane Grey films, is by way of becoming an expert on them. A raging prairie fire, a mad stampede of a tremendous herd of cattle, plenty of hard riding, lots of bitter gunplay—these contribute to the picture's thrills.

Dear Sirs,
For some time past I have examined every consignment of the Raw Material used for the manufacture of your "ASPRO" Tablets. I have also arranged for this to be the invariable practice in the future.
I have in every case found it to be of the highest possible standard of purity—containing no traces of impurities whatsoever. I have not on any single occasion found the minutest trace of free Salicylic Acid, which as, as you know, the particular impurity objected to in the inferior brands of this important substance.

TABLETS

31st October, 1924.

I have during the past few months made an exhaustive examination of a number of the best known brands of Aspirin Tablets, and have, at the request of Nicholas Pyl, Ltd., made a careful examination of "ASPRO". As a result of these examinations I have to report that, after 100 individual tests, I find that no single tablet of "ASPRO" contains any trace of free Salicylic Acid.

I find the weight of the tablets very uniform, and that they have been made by some process which, contrary to the general practice, does not cause decomposition and consequent liberation for free Salicylic Acid. All other processes of Aspirin tablet manufacture with which are liable to contain, and do frequently contain, free Salicylic Acid.

SERIAL STORY

The DARK BLOND
by CARLETON KENDRAKE

CHAPTER XXI

Millicent kept her presence of mind about it," Jarvis Happ remarked. Now that she had seen the human side of the officer brought out by Vera Duchene, she realised that he was, after all, only a man and one of the kind who could be impressed by Vera Duchene's simulated interest. "Just what do you mean," she asked, "by asking me what I know about this?"

He put the paper down on her desk, banged it with his knuckles by way of emphasis. "This paper," he said, "was written on the machine in your desk. Therefore, I want to know just what you know."

"Wait a minute," Jarvis Happ said. "I think I can answer that question, Buchanan. This young lady knows absolutely nothing about it. This is the first time she has sat at that desk. I showed it to her last night, but she didn't have an opportunity to use the typewriter for the simple reason that I was in the room until the time I retired, and when I retired the room was locked. There's a particularly good grade of lock on this room, and Millicent doesn't have a key."

"How does it happen she doesn't have a key?"

"Simply," Happ said, "because I hadn't got around to giving her one. I intend to give her one, because she'll have to come in here at all hours of the day and night. Many of the times I won't be in the house, but last night she didn't have a key, and she didn't have access to that typewriter."

"Then who did?" the detective asked.

"Quite a few of the people in the house. The housekeeper, for one. She comes in here to clean up. My wife has a key which she leaves, I believe, either in the custody of her maid, Miss Vera Duchene, or leaves hanging where it is accessible to Vera Duchene. Robert Caise has a key. My son, Norman, has a key, and I have a key."

"How about the chauffeur?"

Jarvis Happ hesitated a moment, then said slowly, "Yes. My chauffeur had a key."

"His keys were found in his pocket," Detective Buchanan said. "Then the keys that are missing are those of Robert Caise. Is that right?"

"Yes. Caise said he left his entire key container in the car. He doesn't usually do that. He leaves his ignition key on his key container. In that way he isn't so likely to forget it. He's rather absent-minded at times. So, if your chauffeur took Caise's car and got Caise's keys, he'd have a way to get into your study."

"He didn't need to do that," Happ said, "because I've already told you he could get in here any time he wanted to. He had a key."

"But it rather unusual to give a chauffeur a key to your private study?"

Jarvis Happ's tone was icily formal. "I can assure you, Buchanan," he said, "that I am not in the least interested in the usual etiquette applying to chauffeurs, or the customary relationships between chauffeurs and employers. I manage my affairs for my own convenience, and I consider that I am thoroughly capable of doing so."

"Well, we've got to investigate this thing," Buchanan said, "and that's one of the funny facts."

"There certainly is nothing funny about it," Jarvis Happ remarked savagely. "Well, call it queer if you want to. There are lots of queer things about this murder. For instance, why should Harry Felding have thrown those car keys into the pool below the fountain?"

"He didn't," Jarvis Happ said swiftly. "What makes you think he didn't?"

"You haven't any reason for believing that he did," Happ pointed out, "except that someone has sent you an unsigned typewritten document."

"Oh yes, we have," the detective said.

He pushed his hand down into his coat pocket, brought out the water-soaked leather key container, and slapped it down on Jarvis Happ's desk.

"We drained the pool," he said. "That's what we found in the bottom of it."

Jarvis Happ stared at the water-soaked key container without emotion, and Millicent was glad Buchanan's eyes were fastened upon Happ, for she realised her own face showed only too plainly her mental confusion.

"I still say," Jarvis Happ remarked, "that you have no evidence whatever that Harry Felding put those keys in the pool. On the other hand, you have every evidence that he did not."

"What do you mean we've got every evidence that he didn't?"

Jarvis Happ sighed after the manner of a patient teacher explaining something to a rather dull school-boy.

"The note," he said, "was delivered to you. It was written for the purpose of enabling you to find the missing keys. You didn't enter upon the scene until after Harry Felding had been murdered. Naturally, therefore, the note was written after Felding's murder. A dead man doesn't write letters on a typewriter, even if he does have access to the room where the typewriter is kept."

"Now, on the other hand, someone knew those keys were in the pool. Logically, the only person who would know this was the person who threw the keys there. Certainly if Harry Felding had returned home in the darkness, and tossed those keys surreptitiously into the pool, would have been the only one who knew about it. The fact that this living person knew of the hiding place of those keys, and is almost positive indication that this person put them there."

Buchanan said slowly, "Why did that person put them there?"

"To hide them, of course."

"Why?"

"If Harry Felding had those keys," Jarvis Happ said, "the person who took them from him must have taken them from Harry Felding. They couldn't have taken them from him while he was alive without a fight, unless it had been some person in whom Felding had confidence. If such a person took the keys from Felding after his death, that person must have been instrumental in bringing about his death, or else must have discovered his body without reporting it to the police. Either would have been an indication of guilt."

"If, on the other hand, Felding, himself, did not have those keys, the person who did have them realised that it would be most incriminating to be found with those keys, since the mere possession of the keys ties some person up with the surreptitious operation of Robert Caise's automobile. That means that some member of this household was out at a late hour last night, and it is only reasonable to suppose that such a secret nocturnal excursion was connected in some way either with the death of Harry Felding or the events which led up to it."

Buchanan suddenly dropped his attitude of hostility. His eyes glistened with interest.

"We still ain't getting anywhere, Mr. Happ," he said, "because the person who tossed those keys into the pool did it to conceal them. Such a person would never have written a note telling where they were. Therefore, the person who wrote the note wasn't the person that chucked the keys in. That means that some other person knew those keys were thrown in. So if you're going to figure two people in on it, you might just as well figure Harry Felding was the one who threw them in, as to figure that some other person was."

Jarvis Happ nodded his head slowly, and said, "That, of course, is true if the possession of those keys was wrongful."

"What do you mean?" Buchanan wanted to know.

"The only way that we know Robert Caise left those keys in the automobile," Jarvis Happ said slowly, "is that Robert, himself, says so. On the other hand, isn't it equally logical to believe that he was out last night, didn't want anyone to know this and, therefore, shrouded his absence in secrecy? Unfortunately, he ran out of gas. He ran out of gas at a time when he couldn't readily replenish it. Therefore it became necessary for him to leave his automobile by the curb. Under those circumstances, nothing is more logical than that he would have returned and tried to cover up the fact that he had been out in his own automobile by pretending he left the keys in his car and then hiding the keys somewhere, such as in the pool."

"Having done that, he would want the police to find the keys—first, because he would want the keys back, secondly, because he would want the police to find them in some place where they had very evidently been concealed by someone who was trying to cover up the theft of the keys."

Buchanan stared steadily at Jarvis Happ. Slowly, almost thoughtfully, he nodded his head.

"That's damned good logic. You get Bob Caise up here and I'm going to turn him wrong side out."

Jarvis Happ reached for the telephone on his desk and said, "I'll communicate with the butler."

"Just one moment, please," said Cynthia Happ's well modulated voice. "I happen to have been standing in the doorway. I have heard the last part of your conversation. I don't think you will send for Robert, after you have heard what I have to say."

Millicent glanced up apprehensively.

The diamond-hard, gray eyes of Cynthia Happ were boring steadily into hers.

"Close the door," Cynthia Happ said, "and don't let anyone leave this room."
